Grief Support Groups

Grief support: Finding hope beyond loss

Losing a person you love is one of life's most difficult challenges. The grief process can include a range of feelings and reactions. Learning about the impact of grief and how to cope are some of the best ways to begin healing. Sharing experiences and emotions in a safe environment can help you face the future with renewed hope.

We are pleased to offer a wide range of grief support programs to adults, teens and children at no cost.

Our grief support programs include:

- Grief groups for adults who have lost a loved one
- Family workshops
- Support services for children and teens, including Camp Courage summer camps for kids

Navigating Grief (Workshop)

Navigating Grief is a one-time, educational group for the newly bereaved. If your loved one has died within the last few months, we welcome you to join us.

Topics Include:

- What to expect on your grief journey
- How to identify your grief style
- How to take care of yourself

BraveHeart helps children and teens, ages 6-18, and their families realize they are not alone in their thoughts or feelings. With support from JourneyCare's specially trained staff, participants learn to face changes now and in the future, while finding hope after loss, sharing memories of their loved one and celebrating their lives together.
